

BECOME A DCB PATIENT LEADER!

At DCB, we want to light a fire under the diabetes innovators of the world. And we have a plan: we've set our sights on a clear vision and mission – to make life better for people with diabetes by changing diabetes treatment forever. To do this, we identify unmet needs and help translate science into real solutions that meet those needs. So how do we identify what people with diabetes really need? By involving them of course! That's why we want you to become one of our patient leaders and therefore a part of our international community of innovators, experts, researchers and people with diabetes from all over the world.

WHAT'S IN IT FOR YOU?

You will be the first one to test new diabetes technologies as a beta user

We will feature you and your story in the DCB newsletter, on our website and on our social media channels

You have the opportunity to hold a key note session in the programme of the DCB the Innovators' Circle on a topic in which you are an expert

You will be part of an international, interdisciplinary network of diabetes innovators, researchers and industry experts

You will get the possibility to receive support for your activities and have access to events and to the DCB facilities

SO, WHAT DO YOU THINK?

By actively involving you and your voice, we want to ensure that the ideas we help develop are truly patient-centric. Become our next DCB Patient Leader and join us on our mission to make life better for people with diabetes! Let us know what you think and send an email to community@dcberne.com!
